SECOND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

FIRST READING

Isaiah 49: 3, 5-6

In this passage there is a presumption that the servant of the Lord is discouraged by the fruitlessness of his mission. God's response is to broaden the scope of that mission to include the gentiles. The servant is given the name 'Israel', because now he is taking on much more than the call and characteristics of the traditional, historic prophets. He is personifying now the true loyal People of God in its acceptance of God's word and its obedience to it, and he also must summon those in need of it in Israel to repentance and restoration.

SECOND READING

1 Corinthians 1: 1-3

In this passage Paul establishes his apostolic authority as being, by virtue of a divine call, 'called to be an apostle'. He uses the word Church in the sense of the local church, the 'assembly of the Lord' in Corinth. 'Holy people in Christ' means that, through their baptism they are set apart and belong to the Body of Christ. Christians are holy just as Israel was holy, that is set apart, by divine election, from all the peoples of the earth. 'Grace and peace', a common phrase in the Pauline letters, may reflect an early liturgical greeting.

GOSPEL

John 1: 29-34

After the prologue to the Gospel we hear from John the Baptist what he himself is not and for whom he is preparing the way. In this passage we have the positive side of John's testimony, in which he identifies Jesus according to his role: 'the lamb of God that takes away the sin of the world'. The Baptist also affirms the pre-existence of Jesus: 'he ranks before me because he existed before me', but only after he had baptized him did John recognized Jesus as the Messiah 'the one on whom you see the Spirit come down'.
