SIXTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME 'A'

FIRST READING

Ecclesiasticus (Sirach) 15: 15-20

The passage from Sirach presents us with a picture of God as the Mighty One, who is all-wise, all-knowing and all-good. God sets before us the decision of choosing him (life) or death. Sirach stresses that there can be no avoiding our responsibility to do the will of God. The reading makes it clear that God wishes us to choose life, but will not force us; the decision is our own.

SECOND READING

1 Corinthians 2: 6-10

Paul tells the Corinthians that the wisdom which Christians possess is not a wisdom of the age, limited in its vision to the perspective of humanity. Rather it is a wisdom which emanates from the very body of the crucified one and is the manifestation of God's glory. This wisdom prepares those who receive it to enter the fullness of life.

GOSPEL

Matthew 5: 17-37

The New Moses, Jesus gives with authority God's own interpretation of the Law, an interpretation which calls us to go beyond the letter, to take the law into our hearts to avoid hypocrisy. By means of three examples - anger, lust, deceitfulness - he shows us how every thing takes place in the human heart.
