THIRTEENTH SUNDAY, ORDINARY TIME 'A'

FIRST READING

2 Kings 4: 8-11, 14-16

The hospitality of the woman of Shunem is rewarded by the prophet with the fulfilment of her greatest hope; the birth of a son and later the raising from the dead of the same son. The woman recognizes Elisha as a prophet and shows a great respect for the messenger of the Lord, providing lodging and furniture for his needs, is profoundly maternal. And the demonstration of hospitality is filled by God's gift of new life.

SECOND READING

Romans 6: 3-4, 8-11

Christian baptism is the sacramental experience of a radical change that includes a dying to sin and the beginning of a new life in Christ. Paul uses the symbolism of the rituals of baptism to speak about entering death and rising with Christ. He stresses the importance of baptism as the efficacious beginning of a new life in Christ. A new relationship is established between Christ and the believer, a relationship of deep union as a result of baptism.

GOSPEL

Matthew 10: 37-42

Jesus is not suggesting a rejection of family values but in the typical fashion of his own culture he speaks in contrast, thereby emphasizing that he must take priority over all other relationships. Love of Jesus must be the ultimate measure of a believer's dedication to the service of others. Losing one's life by giving it in service to others is the best way of enriching one's own life. For whoever has given himself or herself to the Lord, should be welcomed by others with respect, with appreciation for their ministry, with awareness of their prophetic challenge and call to holiness.
